WHAT TO WRITE SOLDIERS:

"The soldier wants the intimate details of life back home," says Chaplain (Major) Alvie L. McKnight of Cleveland, Mississippi, who has just returned to the U. S. after five months of duty on Guadalcanal. "That the girl two doors down has taken a war plant job, or that the couple across the street have had a baby may make your letter read like a personal column in a small-town weekly newspaper, but that's what he wants. By all means, don't tell the soldier about your troubles. He has enough of his own. Domestic troubles affect the morale of the soldier at the front more than anything else. Something to live for and go back to is what keeps a soldier going. It is what gives a man fight. Home life is everything to the man at the front."

AVERAGE INCOME UP, BUT—

In July, 1940, the average American had an income of about $47.92. Military expenditures in that month amounted to approximately $1.50 per person. In April of this year, income per capita was 1.8 times what it was in the middle of 1940—$85.03, but if the average American had been asked to pay April's war expenses on the spot, they would have taken $53.52 of his new $85.03 income.

$1.00 APIECE FOR POOR TIRES:

One dollar apiece is the maximum price that OPA has set for low-quality used passenger car tires which now are permitted for the first time. Maximum additions to this price are provided when tires are given emergency repairs before being sold.

JAP PRISONERS DIE:

More than 300 U. S. war casualties are the result of unhealthy conditions in Japanese prison camps, according to messages received through the International Red Cross from Japan. Disease is stated in each case as the cause of death. Malaria, diphtheria, dysentery, and pneumonia are the major causes and some cases of beri-beri are reported.

AVOID FUEL SHORTAGES:

Fuel shortages can be avoided, says a recent OWI report, only if—

- (1) Large consumers of fuel oil, those using more than 10,000 gallons a year, convert their oil burners to coal burners now.
- (2) Both home and industrial users of bituminous coal order supplies now.
- (3) Householders place orders for insulation, weather stripping, storm windows, etc., immediately.

SOLDIERS' DEPENDENTS GET CHECKS:

Family allowances and voluntary allotments-of-pay are now in force for about four and a half million dependents, the War Department has announced. More than 20 million family allowance and allotment-of-pay checks have been mailed to the wives, children, and other dependent relatives of army men in one year.

BABY CARRIAGE QUOTA DECREASED:

Baby carriages to be made in the current quarter have been decreased to 289,369, compared to the original schedule of 317,777. However, strollers, walkers, and sulkies have been increased from 163,500 to 233,500. The demand for baby carriages in 1943 is expected to be 900,000.

PROSECUTE GAS RATION VIOLATORS:

Criminal prosecutions for violation of gasoline rationing regulations instituted by OPA through April 30, 1943, totaled 509. Ninety-three cases involved operators of gasoline stations. The remaining 416 were actions against individuals ranging from private automobile owners and filling station attendants to criminal "rings" engaged in systematic theft and sale of stolen gasoline ration books and coupons.

LOANS INSURED BY FHA:

More than $6,800,000,000 in loans by private lending institutions financing the construction, purchase, or repair of approximately 5,400,000 homes, have been insured by the Federal Housing Administration since its establishment on June 27, 1934, it was announced as the FHA marked its ninth anniversary. About one-half of the loans have been insured since the start of the war production program in the summer of 1940.

CIGARETTE BRANDS TO STAY:

Any rumors that OPA plans to reduce or eliminate cigarette brands or brand names, or to provide for only one cigarette, "are absolutely baseless," Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown declared recently.

WAR PLANTS VALUED:

War industrial plants financed with public and private says the War Production Board. This includes all projects for funds had a total value of $19,339,000,000 by the end of March, which contracts have been let since June, 1940.

Patriotic Gallery Not Yet Complete

The American Legion Auxiliary, which is in charge of the display of photographs of Narberth's men and women in the Armed Forces, at the community celebration on Monday, July 5, 1943, reports that not all the families have responded to the call to have a 100 percent participation of the borough's contribution to the war effort.

The committee points out that any degree of oversight would hardly be complimentary to the absent men and women and it is hoped that this week-end will provide all the pictures which are now missing.

For the convenience of the latecomers, the American Legion room will be open to receive the photographs on Sunday afternoon, July 4, 1943.

The present mailing address of the men and women should in every case be provided.

Of the 4,000 Rotary clubs in existence throughout the world, only 166 are dormant due to the war, and these are in Axis-dominated countries, Herman West, past president of the Philadelphia Rotary Club told members of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Club, at the last meeting.

Fuel Oil Coupons Now Being Mailed

The Ardmore War Price and Rationing Board announced that they are mailing fuel oil coupons for next season's heating and hot water requirements. They urge all individuals to return promptly the applications which were mailed last week.

Chairman Henry M. Harman pointed out that this year's coupons are much simpler to handle than those used last year. The average householder will receive considerably fewer coupons, but each coupon has a greater value than last year's. He pointed out that the type of coupon received by most individuals will be worth five units, rather than one unit, as was the case last year. In computing the rations, a unit was assumed to be 10 gallons, which has been set by Washington as the value for the entire first period. The value of the units in the other periods will be announced later. There are also on each coupon sheet 200 gallons of change coupons, and from one to six 50-gallon inventory coupons, any of which may be used at any time during the entire heating season. In order to take advantage of the storage facilities of individual tanks, it is recommended that everybody fill their tanks as soon as possible after receiving their coupons.

The Board states that they will complete the mailing of all coupons for which application have been received, before July 10.

The work is open to Sea, Air, Explorer and other scouts, aged 14 or over. Some 14-year-olds will be accepted for selected projects and pre-Explorer training.

Crop Rescue Camps will be at the Senior Sea Scout Base, Masonville, N. J., and New Lisbon, N. J., and near Bettertown, Md.

The Council has stressed the opportunity for the boys to enjoy a summer vacation while doing farm work to help their country. Organized scout activities will provide recreation.

MRS. C. A. CHAIN DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Funeral Service Held June 30; Husband, 4 Children, Survive

Mrs. Helen Hipple Chain, wife of Charles H. A. Chain, died early Saturday morning, June 26, 1943, at her home, 99 Windsor Avenue. Her funeral occurred on Wednesday of this week, with Solemn Requiem Mass at St. Margaret's Church. Interment was made at Old Cathedral Cemetery.

It was not possible for either of the soldier-sons to attend the funeral.

Mr. Chain is a special agent with the Pennsylvania Railroad, having been connected with the company since his boyhood.

Lived Here 32 Years
Thirty-two years the Chains have lived in Narberth, their only home, as man and wife, and the sad demise occurred just two days before the wedding anniversary which would have been observed on June 28, 1943.

Many are still here who remember the local advent of these people whose impressive way of life left its fine mark on many things, and those who were privileged to know Helen Chain must draw large inspiration from the edifying manner in which she confronted the physical miseries which so long beset her.

Her gay outlook and cheerful acceptance of pain never deserted her... and that orthodoxy which asserts the profound spiritual significance of human suffering can assuredly point to these circumstances as high testimony of its convictions. There is deep grief at the passing of this exemplary woman.

From 10.45 until 11 A. M., there will be a baby show, which will be open to boys and girls, ages one to four years. Prizes will be awarded to the fattest, curliest haired, healthiest looking and best natured. From 11 to 11.45 A. M., there will be a baby parade for boys and girls, ages five to ten years. UNION CHURCH SERVICE HERE SIGNIFICANT TO WAR AND PEACE

Of all the communities on the Main Line, Narberth again takes the lead. All of the Protestant churches of Narberth, including All Saints Episcopal Church, are sponsoring a Union Service at 7.30 P. M., on July 4, a memorable day in the history of our Nation in its struggle for freedom.

This will be a memorable service at which the fellowship and catholic unity of our Christian bodies will be expressed. The United Nations face a common danger. All Christian bodies must prepare to unite in service for Christ and the World. We must be equal to the critical task of bringing Christian ideals and principles to bear in the rebuilding of our shattered world.

We will need to combine our energies and work together in mutual trust and good will. It would be folly to assume that the Episcopal Church, or Methodist Church, or Presbyterian Church, could, by itself, measure up to the task. We have not theories of our own to propagate. The World Peace must not be based on the theory or dogmatic system of any one Christian body. We must let in Light. We must try to see and reveal to others the essential issues of Christianity and to promote the application of the law of Christ.

To this end, we, in Narberth, will hold this Union Service. The Rev. Stewart W. Herman, Jr.—having lived in Germany for five or six years—will give us his interpretation of the obligation resting upon each individual Christian. He will tell us of the need of establishing the coming peace terms on a faith in a living God and His relation to every human life.

Defense Council Warns Victory Gardeners Of Rat Menace

As Victory Gardens are now well under way, this is the time to give some thought to the destructive rat. Unlike beetles and cutworms that can raise havoc in the garden, doing their work in the open, the rat works quietly and unseen in his usual underground manner doing tremendous damage to the food supply of the country. Unfortunately the rat is given little attention by most people. The damage done by the individual rat seems negligible, but one has only to study the facts and figures which are a matter of record to see his enormous destructive ability.

It has been estimated that it costs approximately $2.00 a year to feed each rat in the country. The damage to food which is uneaten but rendered unfit for consumption averages about $20.00 a year per rat, so that the total cost of maintaining the rat is 22.00 a year. A conservative estimate of the rat population in this country is about one rat for every two individuals. So it is very evident that this is a great problem, particularly at this time.

Rats have increased in Lower Merion Township, particularly in certain sections, to such an extent that they now constitute a potential menace to public health. To combat this menace, the Board of Health urges all citizens to exterminate rats, and where possible to rat-proof buildings. In addition, the war effort will be hindered by the destruction of valuable food and stores if rats are allowed to exist.

The rat challenges the Victory Gardeners. The individual tastes of these rodents is much like that of the humans. A change of diet is very acceptable to them and this desire very often brings them out to the open food sources. Their appetites are especially keen for ripe tomatoes, fruit of all kinds, and somewhat less for corn and root vegetables. Care should be taken in the garden to keep tomatoes up from the ground, and to dispose of all fallen fruit and vegetables immediately. Keep the grounds clear of all debris, which is very attractive to the rat for a place of refuge and breeding. Do not let piles of dead vegetation accumulate around the garden or on the premises without giving some thought for its disposal. It has been our experience in the past to find such piles of debris and other rubbish to give the rats the protection from the weather they need to establish their harbors.

The increased supply of food afforded by gardens will definitely cause an increase in the number of rats. The question is, "Who shall benefit by your labors in the garden, you or the rat?"

This is Your Country

A journey even half-way across the country these days is an eye-opener. No matter how much you may have heard about the new industrial plants and about the size of the new army camps and training fields, it's something else again to see them.

There are literally acres of buildings in various parts of the country on land that was being farmed a year ago! Some of them are great modern industrial plants, others are huge military depots where millions of dollars worth of materials are collected for equipping whole divisions. Still others are the army camps themselves where hundreds of thousands of young men are being trained for every branch of the service.

To drive by one of these great new plants with a high, electrically wired fence around it and a parking lot full of cars in front of it, is to begin to understand what power there is in this country. For you know that this is only one of hundreds of such plants. And to see row after row of trucks, and jeeps, and landing barges out on the prairies of the Middle West, just next door to a corn field, is to get some idea of what has already been accomplished by our war industry. To see men in uniform everywhere, on the trains, in hotels, on the street is to begin to understand the size of the war we're fighting.

There is hardly a section of the whole United States where there isn't some new project brought about by the determination of a great industrial people who, coming late into the war, are making up for lost time by speed and efficiency.

And when you see these buildings, the workers, and the results of their efforts, you get a feeling up and down your spine and perhaps a lump in your throat. For this is your country girding itself for battle. This is your country showing what it is made of and putting its unique industrial ingenuity to work for the sake of human freedom.

Revision of canned goods allocations order means more of the 1943 canned foods pack for civilians. Most goods will undergo modification except carrots, which you'll eat fresh — if at all — since all canned are set aside for the Government.

Manufacturers are having headaches trying to get rayon to line wool suits and coats. Rayon production will be about the same as 1942's, but Government takes 50% of output for tire cord, parachutes and war-essential uses.

Real mayonnaise makes a salad taste better and gives it that stick-to-the-rib quality; it's good too as a spread on bread. But have you tried using it in cooking? Just beat ¾ cup real mayonnaise and ½ cup milk together in top of double boiler until smooth. Season to taste and cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly. It's wonderful on fish, vegetables, or eggs!!!

Miss Mary Houston, dietitian graduate from Drexel Institute, will instruct canning workers at the Baldwin School's kitchens. Women may bring their own vegetables to preserve under the supervision of Miss Houston. A small fee will be charged. Another phase of the canning program will be to prepare food for an "emergency," so that appeals for food in case of scarcities next winter may be answered.

Volunteers to help in the canning are needed by the Emergency Aid, and are urged to assist in the vital work.

Albert A. Reiter Appointed to High Position at Autocar

Albert A. Reiter, of Brookline, was appointed assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of the Autocar Company at the June meeting of the board of directors.

Reiter joined the accounting department of the Autocar factory organization on April 13, 1911. For the past several years he has been office manager and, as such, has been in immediate charge of the expansion of the Autocar office personnel in order to meet the requirements of their war production.

He is vice president and chairman of the finance committee of the Haverford Township Board of Commissioners, and also executive co-ordinator of the Haverford Township Council of Civilian Defense.

Reiter is a member of the vestry and secretary of St. Faith's Protestant Episcopal Church, and director of the Haverford Township Square Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Reiter live at 145 Cathmere Rd., Brookline. A son, P. Kenneth Reiter, is a resident of Brookline, and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Reiter Betty, lives in Norristown.

The softly tailored one-piece dress in navy is a fashion favorite this season. Here it is shown made of navy faille crepe. The new color is navy with purple, and this costume subscribes to the trend. The ruffled collar makes a flattering neckline, while the new trouser pockets give fashion interest to the skirt.

July 31 Last Day for Car Inspections

July 31 is the deadline for the current State motor vehicle inspection and motorists were warned today by Walter N. White, Wartime Motoring Bureau Manager, for the Automobile Club of Philadelphia-AAA, of the very real danger of losing the use of one's car for several weeks, if inspections are not obtained well in advance of the deadline.

"If you are one of the many Pennsylvania motorists starting July without having had your car given a thorough rechecking and adjustment at an official inspection station, the only sensible thing is to remedy the oversight at once," Mr. White said. "Even in the balmy days preceding Pearl Harbor, a certain element of risk was involved in putting the semi-annual inspection off until the inevitable last-minute rush placed long queues of automobiles in front of the more popular stations. And that was in the almost forgotten era when skilled mechanics and trained automobile repairmen were plentiful."

"Today, thousands of former Pennsylvania automobile mechanics are serving in the armed forces or are working in war industries outside the transportation field. The average garage is undermanned, even by policies and standards of the present emergency, and virtually none have forces large enough to take care of a pre-war, last-minute rush of inspections. This fact, in itself, should impress you with the absolute necessity for getting your car inspected today or tomorrow. If it doesn't, then consider that the current inspection—and any interim rechecks or overhauling—is invaluable in helping you to safeguard the precious transportation that is contained in your automobile and your present tires."

BUTTONS miracle

Too many of us think that, when the war ends, somebody in Washington is going to push a button which will immediately convert our country from a wartime prosperity to a peacetime prosperity. We like to imagine that, when the button is pushed, tank assembly lines will suddenly start turning out shiny new automobiles, roast beef will appear in all the butcher shops of the land, our ration books can be 000,000 men in the Army and Navy will appear on their home doorsteps in civvies and we gorge ourselves with luxuries of all kinds.

We hear about the problems of post-war planning, but in general they bore us, for we have an infinite faith in that Washington button. We have seen our country converted, almost overnight, from making civilian products to turning out the greatest supply of war equipment ever produced by any nation. Why can't Washington, with equal facility, shift us back again into a prosperous peacetime nation?

The answer is that Washington would like to try—but if we let Washington do it, instead of doing it ourselves, we will end up with a peacetime dictatorship very similar to the ones we are now fighting to destroy. We must decide quickly whether we are going to have our lives run, after the war, by the Government or by the people.

PLANS Washington

There are some members of our Washington bureaucracy who would jump at the chance to make us all subservient to the Government. They would like to have the Government tell us what we can own, how much money we should make, what business we should go in, and how much we should pay for everything we buy. They are the men who think our type of democracy is old-fashioned and want to substitute regimentation for independence.

There are other members of our Government who want to preserve democracy and free enterprise—who think our constitutional form of government is just as superior as it ever was—but even they realize that the Government will have to draw the blue prints for our lives after the war unless we do it ourselves.

To do it ourselves, we must first get rid of the idea that there is going to be an over-all, national plan which will prevent a depression, guard against unemployment and bring our economy back to normal. Any such over-all plan would have to be one controlled by the Government.

Instead of waiting for some magic formula to evolve in Washington, we must, instead—each one of us—figure out what we can do to bring our own businesses and our own lives back to normal.

INGENUITY spirit

The strength of our democracy lies in individual ingenuity. When our forefathers built this great country they didn't do it by forming a government and waiting around to have that government tell them what to do next. Instead, each man worked out his own individual problem. Some decided to operate stores, others decided to be miners, others built roads and others took up farming.

The pioneering spirit which led these men to strike out for themselves and work out their problems in their own individual ways is the type of spirit which we must depend upon after the war for putting our world together again.

Instead of trying to figure out what the Government can do for us after the war, we should sit down and plan how we can work things out without asking the Government for anything. If things look tough and the Government offers to help us out with loans or regulations we must refuse that assistance, pull in our belts and call on our own intelligence and ability to solve our own problems.

Just as a child who gets everything he wants from his parents usually doesn't amount to much in the world, so will business decay if it goes to Uncle Sam for money, advice or protection.

The post-war conferences which will really count will not be the ones held in Washington but the ones held in the parlors of homes, in the back rooms of stores and in the Board of Directors' offices of our big industries.

Washington, D. C. (NWNS)—The biggest feather-in the government's cap, so far as war activities on the domestic front are concerned, is the marvelous production record of industry. But, although the government leaders naturally use these production figures with a boastful "look what we did" attitude—any fair-minded person must admit that it is industry and not government which is responsible for these amazing records.

The President can take credit for having picked the right men for the war production job—having appointed outstanding industrial leaders who had proved their ability to perform production miracles and having picked them without regard to their politics or to their opinion of the New Deal. But, unfortunately, the leaders of most other war agencies were chosen because of their politics, and politics is therefore playing an increasingly important role in wartime activities.

Here's a Tempting Dessert

Want to tempt jaded summer appetites with an easy, delicious dessert? Here's how: Take lady fingers and criss-cross them on a plate to form a sort of lattice-work effect. Spread thoroughly sweetened halves of strawberries about them and top with plenty of Devon Style Cream, a sweet cream to which a sour culture has been introduced. It's a delightfully tart, cool topping and—it's unrational. Try it, too, on "regular" shortcake over crushed and sweetened berries. Crispy summer salads taste even better when you use Devon Style Cream as the base for your salad dressings. Mix a tablespoon or two in gravies, sauces and soups just before serving, if you're seeking a new taste treat.

Some of the more gloomy of the news analysts here fully expect many of our leading war agencies to fall to pieces. They think that the Office of Price Administration has become an office of such confusion and political battling that it will soon explode and that prices and distribution of food and merchandise will get entirely out of control. They predict the days are numbered for the Office of War Information and are encouraged in this viewpoint by the refusal of the house of representatives to provide funds for OWI's domestic operations. And they say that the food agencies have so bungled the handling of farm problems that the people will demand drastic changes in the personnel and operations of these agencies.

Although Prentiss Brown, head of the OPA, expects to keep food prices from rising by the use of subsidies, the house of representatives showed its strong antagonism to this plan when it voted, 160 to 106, to discontinue the subsidy plan. This vote was in the nature of a revolt by the house, since the President had made it clear that he was all for the subsidy program. The President had said that even if subsidies cost $2,000,000,000, it would be cheap compared with the cost of rising prices.

However, the suggestion that billions of federal funds be handed out to keep prices in line came at a bad time—for it followed immediately upon the heels of the passage of pay-as-you-go taxation and the demand of the treasury for a large new tax bill. The public has made it clear to its congressmen that it will not tolerate higher taxes if it sees tax money being wasted. And every congressman knows that the only people who favor subsidies are those who get a share of them.

The fact that it is going to require 10,000 to 15,000 more employees in the treasury to handle pay-as-you-go taxes also does not set well with the people when they are about to be asked for more tax money. Although a new tax bill will undoubtedly be put through before the end of the year, it seems likely here that congress will first insist on a lot of government economies before it will vote for any increase.

The treasury still opposes forced savings although it is apt to reverse its attitude on this if there is much of a drop in the voluntary sale of bonds when pay-as-you-go deductions from wages begin. The treasury hopes to sell at least $28,000,000,000 more of bonds this year but fears that it may fail in reaching that goal if there is any let-up in the regular purchases now being made by the majority of people.

Autocar Official to be Haverford Candidate

Albert A. Reiter, whose appointment as assistant secretary and assistant treasurer at the Autocar Company was announced this week, will be a candidate for re-election as commissioner in Haverford Township.

Reiter has been on the Board of Commissioners, representing the Brookline district, for six years. He was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Thomas Weidemann, when Weidemann became Township treasurer. Later he was elected to the office for his first term. At present he is chairman of the finance committee and vice-president of the Board.

For attendance Reiter has established a record similar to that of Dr. Frank P. K. Barker, president of the Lower Merion Township governing board. He has not missed a meeting.

Reiter joined the accounting department of the Autocar factory organization on April 13, 1911, and it was at the June meeting of the board of directors that he was made assistant treasurer and assistant secretary. As office manager for the past few years he has been in charge of the expansion of the Autocar personnel to meet war production requirements.

ALBERT A. REITER

In addition to his duties as commissioner Reiter is executive coordinator of the Haverford Township Council of Civilian Defense. He is a member of the vestry and secretary of St. Faith's Protestant Episcopal Church and director of the Haverford Township Square Club.

Four Men Arrested And Charged With Attempted Hold-Up

Four men were arrested last night in Haverford Township on suspicion of attempted hold-up. The men were held on the complaint of Mrs. Rothfuss, 560 Kathemere Rd., in Brookline, who said that the men stopped her as she got into her car. She got away and called the police, who picked up the four.

The men are: Oger Galeto, 218 N. Simpson St.; Sam Troilo, 1012 E. Cantrell St.; Frederick Barra, 543 Marlin Rd., and John Christopher, 348 N. Gross St., all of Philadelphia.

After this war there will probably be even more changes in our way of living than there were after the last war, for with each succeeding decade we seem to progress more rapidly in the sciences and in mechanics. Maybe in a few million years we will grow smart enough to devise some method of preventing the wholesale murder called war.

War is a devastating destroyer, not only of material things, but—far more important—of that most vital element in our social set-up—youth. But even war has some compensations—in that it hastens scientific and mechanical research and evolution. It has been said, for instance, that the tremendous advances made in the prevention of social diseases during our First World War have almost balanced the destructive effect upon humanity occasioned by the terrible loss of life during that war. Spectacular steps were taken in surgery, aviation, radio, manufacturing methods and unnumbered other lines.

This war will create like advances and, if anything, even more sensational. As an instance—the tin can which has "sucked" our new generation since infancy, will in many cases be replaced by paper containers of frozen foods. Fresh frozen delicacies from far off lands and unfamiliar climates will be purchased at the corner grocery shop just as we now buy a can of tomatoes from New York state or of pineapple from California. And these delicious foods will be just as fresh in the stew pot in Poland as they were on the day they were picked in Siam or Palestine.

Ships will be fitted with enormous sub-zero space and will carry the freshly frozen meats, fruits and vegetables of one part of the earth to another. Every grocer will have glass covered, low temperature cases from which the marketer will select her groceries just as she now does from bins and shelves and counters.

Every mechanical refrigerator will be equipped with a large compartment which maintains a temperature of around zero; and when the frozen groceries or meats are delivered they will be placed there in until used. Separate low-temperature containers—which before the war were so expensive—will be manufactured at prices which the majority of families can afford to pay. They will be made in much smaller sizes also because every grocer will have "frozen storage" and it will not be necessary for the nearby family to carry more than a small supply.

There are today about 65 varieties of frozen foods. After the war there will probably be several hundred and many of these will be cooked before they are frozen. Let us hope they are not also pre-masticated and pre-digested: there is still a certain amount of pleasure in those occupations.

Great processing plants will doubtless spring up in rich orchard country and in districts adapted to the growing of the vegetables; and perhaps near the great stockyards of Chicago and Fort Worth. Thus fresh picked fruits and vegetables and properly killed and hung meats will be processed on the spot and shipped in "sub-zero" trucks, airplanes, railroad cars and ships to the far corners of the earth. And there won't be any ration books; we can gorge ourselves to death.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

CHARLES B. DRISCOLL is head of a large newspaper syndicate and author of the widely read column, "New York Day by Day." He is urbane, witty and a wonderful storyteller. You'd never think on meeting him that he had once been a Kansas farm boy, spending his days hoeing potatoes—when his father was watching him—and climbing trees—when his father wasn't watching him.

"Kansas Irish" is Mr. Driscoll's story of his childhood on this farm. It tells of tornadoes, cyclones, floods and of minor catastrophes that befell the author, such as tumbling into the pippen and being attacked by an angry gander. Life wasn't easy for the Driscoll youngsters, but it certainly wasn't dull either.

The dominant person of this story is Big Flurry, the father, whose unpredictable outbursts of temper kept the children and their gentle mother in a constant state of uncertainty. Big Flurry had come from seafaring folk of Ireland, and he was all his life to feel a stranger among the placid farmers of Kansas. He took out his loneliness in violent and unreasonable rages.

His character is illustrated by his treatment of the two poverty stricken Ozarkians who attempted to steal his precious mink, which he kept to cover his wheat stacks. He cursed the Ozarkians, and he kicked them and he clouted them. But then he yelled at his wife: "Ellen, have you got a bite to eat for these hungry flops-le-guys, I don't know." And after they had ravenously finished a steaming pot of coffee, a loaf of bread, a hunk of ham and a pot of boiled salt pork, and after he had fed hay to their lean horses, he refused to call in the police. He administered a few more clouts and kicks, shouted after them, "Get along with ye now, and good luck to ye!"

The Book-of-the-Month Club announces for July a dual selection: "Western Star," by the late Stephen Vincent Benet, a long narrative poem about our pioneers which was completed just before the author's death, and "U. S. Foreign Policy: Shield of the Republic," by Walter Lippmann.

MacKinlay Kantor, author of "Happy Land," received a raft of mail about his story from parents of boys at the fighting fronts. A previous book of Kantor's—"Long Remember"—a tale of the Civil War, found its way into the hands of a sergeant on Guadalcanal. In the thick of battle, when the Japs were throwing everything they had in the vain endeavor to oust the Americans, the sergeant continued to read the book while huddled in his fox hole. An officer remarked drily: "That must be quite a story." "Yes," sighed the sergeant, "they sure had a tough time of it back in those Civil War days."

Planetarium to Close Sky to Be Cleaned

When the stars disappear from the Fels Planetarium sky at the end of the evening demonstration this Sunday, they will not shine again until Saturday, July 17th. When they do come out again they will be brighter, for in the meantime the great dome which forms the sky will have been swept clean and painted—for the first time since the Planetarium was opened almost ten years ago.

The job of cleaning the sky is one which will require ten days of uninterrupted work. To reach the sky, scaffolding will be built inside the dome's room—scaffolding which could easily enclose a three-story house. Then the sky will be brushed and scrubbed and sprayed, and the scaffolding will come down just in time for the scheduled reopening. Franklin Institute officials will have the stars shining at their brightest for the Planetarium's tenth birthday, in November.

Beginning July 17th, and continuing through August, the sun will be the principal actor in the Planetarium show. The demonstration will be devoted to telling the story of the earth's most important star. On clear days the sun itself will be brought into the Planetarium so that it may be examined by the audience. This will be done with the Institute's tower telescope. Not only will sunspots be seen easily, if there are any on the face of the sun at the time, but clouds drifting across the face of the sun will lend added interest to the piped-in image.

The First Aid Tent of the Narberth Volunteer Medical Corps will be ready for service all day and evening.

Overbrook Makes First Division Bid

came into their own in the following game when they crushed Brookline under a terrific barrage of hits and last Sunday they battled Pen-Mar to a 3-3 tie before rain halted the first game of a scheduled double-header after six innings.

The rain prevented Manoa from teeing off against the West Phils in a single game scheduled for Manoa's new field at Veteran's Park, but Narberth managed to play a double bill with Brookline without interruption, the Daviamen winning 9-2 and 5-2, to increase their streak to six.

Narberth broke forth with its heaviest show of offensive strength in the opener, amassing 20 hits to win a game that was never in doubt after the first inning. Bill Keyser, right fielder, led the crushing assault with four hits, including a double. Russ Herrmann knocked in three runs with a double and a pair of singles, while Al Cotton, Buddy Walker and pitcher Bill O'Donnell also clubbed out three hits.

Naturally, O'Donnell had things all his own way on the mound. He limited the Brooks to eight hits and blanked them over the last six innings.

The second game was a much better contest, with Narberth needing a four run rally in the sixth to come from behind to take the decision. Lefty Tomlinson, who replaced starter Al Herrmann on the hill in the sixth after the Brooks took a 2-1 lead, became the winning hurler as a result of the big inning.

Narberth was held to six hits by Al Josephs with Al Cotton leading the way with two singles.

Second baseman Kennedy paced Brookline with three hits in the opener, while Werner and Josephs collected two hits each of the Brooks' seven hits in the night cap.

Narberth plays host to the West Phils this Sunday while Brookline invades Pen-Mar. Manoa goes to Pen-Mar and Brookline clashes with the West Phils on Monday.

Air Marshal
Sir William
Lawrie Welsh

• Few officers in the Royal Air Force know more about air and sea warfare than Air Marshal Sir William Lawrie Welsh, K. C. B., D. S. C., A. F. C., who has been appointed head of the RAF delegation in Washington, D. C.

• He has borne much of the responsibility for the development of the RAF. Welsh's military career began in the Royal Naval Air Service as a flight sub-lieutenant at the outbreak of World War I. In 1918 he left the navy and joined the Royal Flying Corps, later known as the Royal Air Force.

• Since his appointment as commander of the British air forces in North Africa last November, Marshal Welsh has had many contacts with United States forces. In this post he helped plan the triumphant Allied Tunisian victory.

• He has served his government in Egypt, Palestine and Iraq, as well as North Africa. He was director of organization in the air ministry from 1934 to 1937, air member for supply and organization on the air council from 1937 to 1940, and air officer commanding the technical training command from 1940 to 1941.

Speed Mail Service Postmaster Asks Residents to Help

The new method of speeding up mail delivery by adding a branch post office number to the address on mail for delivery in large cities has attained a high degree of success, according to reports of postmasters in many large cities throughout the country.

The new system speeds up the separation of mail for distribution to branch offices and permits much more rapid handling of mail by inexperienced postal clerks, thousands of whom have been employed to replace personnel who have gone into the armed forces and war industries.

Joseph L. Kelley, Narberth postmaster, requested this week that all residents of the borough inquire of their correspondents in the large cities concerning the number assigned to the city residents' branch post office so that the mail may be expedited. The degree to which mail will be speeded depends, says Mr. Kelley, upon the extent to which the numbers are used by mailers.

An example of the new type of address is:

JOHN C. DOE
222 Mattapan Ave.,
Boston 8
Massachusetts.

The number after the name of the city indicates the branch post office or "postal unit" through which delivery is made.
